

Lead in Trust

Are you fighting an uphill battle trying to lead (with) key people in your business? Even as you move to achieve exciting and necessary goals, are you held back by the “drag” of people’s under-the-radar resistance? As a leader, the decisions you make and the actions you take often come with a degree of conflict. When not handled properly, conflicts add up, take root and erode trust. When trust erodes, it gets much harder to keep yourself – and the people you count on – creative and effective.

Whether in partnership or with a team, trust breakdowns are costly to you, your people, and your bottom line. Leadership excellence hinges on the ability to handle conflict skillfully and build trust consistently. You gain leverage and respect when you can repair trust and directly improve your team’s performance. What would extra time and energy to focus on positive results mean to you?

Lead in Trust guides you to the heart of what needs your attention. Use insights and proven frameworks to build your capacity and confidence in building and restoring trust where it counts.

- Get to the core of what breaks and builds trust
- Understand what types of trust are critical to leadership success
- Clarify steps you need to take to restore trust and re-energize collaboration
- Free yourself to lead in trust with greater ease.

Lead in Trust is for leaders trusted for their knowledge or technical expertise who...

- Need to get better results with people
- Prefer to avoid or move beyond (bury) conflict
- Know what to do but, on the frazzled edge, need to do it more skillfully and consistently
- Feel trapped in the drama and want better choices for getting on with it
- Aspire to “extraordinary” in a sustainable, energizing way.
